Foreword

A. Loacker S.p.A. is a joint-stock company corporation, with its registered office in 39054 Auna di Sotto, Renon (BZ), Via Gasterer No. 3, registered at the Chamber of Commerce, Industry, Handicraft and Agriculture of Bolzano under the tax code and registration number 00187320213.

The company's object is:

- 1 The production, and trade of Waffeln, sweets in general and other foodstuffs;
- 2 The management of hotel establishments and gastronomic businesses in general.

Since its founding, the Company has inspired its activities and corporate policies by a set of ethical and operational principles and values, which nurture efficiency, good management and development of business activities over time, with social responsibility, respecting all stakeholders and the community, as well as current legislation.

In adherence to these ethical and operational principles and values, therefore, this Code of Ethics (hereinafter also the Code) has been prepared, part of a more complex Model of Organization, Management and Control pursuant to Legislative Decree 231/2001, as amended, the observance of which is of fundamental importance, both for the proper functioning and reliability of the Company and for the protection of its prestige, image and know-how, factors that constitute a decisive asset for the success of the company.

Thus, the Code encapsulates a set of values and guidelines that must be respected by all those who come into contact with A. Loacker SpA or, more generally, are legitimate stakeholders in the same.

1. General principles

1.1 Objectives.

The Code of Ethics is drawn up to ensure that the business of A. Loacker S.p.A. continues to be managed ethically and sustainably in all its aspects, with a sense of social responsibility and in accordance with the fundamental principles encapsulated in this Code.

All those who work and operate in A. Loacker S.p.A. without distinction or exception, are committed to observing and enforcing these principles within the scope of their functions and responsibilities. All actions, operations and negotiations carried out and, in general, the conduct engaged in by the Recipients (as better defined in paragraph 1.3. below) in the performance of their work activities must be inspired by current regulations and internal procedures, in particular, by the company management system and company procedures.

The Code of Ethics is also drawn up to ensure that Employees inspire their activities to the achievement of the Company's main objectives and behave correctly in the performance of their duties and tasks thus refraining from engaging in unlawful conduct and preventing the commission of offenses considered by the regulations set forth in Legislative Decree 231/2001.

The pursuit of the identified ethical objectives will be ensured through training activities aimed at making all stakeholders aware of the existence and contents of this Code of Ethics. Dialogue and participation are indispensable for all Recipients to share the values in this Code.

1.2. Fundamental Principles

In order to ensure the achievement of the stated objectives, all personnel of A. Loacker S.p.A. are required to adhere to the fundamental principles dictated by the Company's ethical standards:

To this end, A. Loacker S.p.A. undertakes to initiate a dialogue with local authorities, local business associations, local academic and professional organizations, as well as the community, in order to promote a culture of health and safety in the workplace, as well as to raise awareness and responsibility for occupational safety and environmental protection issues.

6. Behavior in the management of the Company

6.1. Relationships with partners

Directors must manage the Company in accordance with fairness, transparency and legality, pursuing the interest and welfare of the shareholders.

Directors shall refrain from engaging in any conduct aimed at unlawfully influencing the vote of shareholders at shareholders' meetings.

6.2. Relations with the Board of Auditors.

Directors are required to provide, when requested, correct, transparent, accurate and truthful information to the members of the Board of Statutory Auditors, in a spirit of full cooperation in order to facilitate the audit and control activities attributed to that body.

6.3. Capital and equity transactions

The Board of Directors, the Board of Statutory Auditors Management and Employees, if involved in the performance of duties related to the following operations:

- Distribution of profits and reserves,
- capital transactions (increases and decreases in the same), as well as fulfillments related to such transactions, such as contributions in kind and valuation of the same,
- Mergers, demergers, and transformations, are required to act with fairness, honesty, transparency and in a manner that complies with the civil law for the protection of the interests of the Company's creditors in the maintenance of their asset guarantees.

In preparing documents and/or reports pertaining to the aforementioned transactions, the Directors, Statutory Auditors, Management Employees and Collaborators are required to ensure the completeness, clarity and truthfulness of information and the utmost accuracy in the processing of information and data.

6.4 Transparency and truthfulness in tax and customs accounting and documentation

The principles of transparency and truthfulness in accounting records, as well as in tax and customs documentation, not only apply to the work of Management and Employees in administrative offices, but also apply to each Employee, in whatever area of the company he or she works.

Accounting, tax and customs transparency and truthfulness is based on the truth, clarity and completeness of basic information for the relevant accounting records and tax and customs documentation and declarations.

Management and Employees are therefore required to cooperate to ensure that management events are correctly and timely represented in accounting and related tax and/or customs documentation.

Appropriate supporting documentation of the activity performed shall be kept on file for each transaction. Each record must reflect exactly what is reflected in the supporting documentation.

It is the responsibility of every member of Management and every Employee to ensure that documentation is easily traceable and ordered according to logical criteria and in accordance with the procedures established by the Company.

7. The protection and use of corporate assets

The corporate assets of A. Loacker S.p.A. consist of tangible physical assets, such as furniture, plant, equipment, cars, machinery, computers, and intangible assets, such as confidential information, know-how, trademarks, technical knowledge developed and disseminated to and by the Directors, members of Management and Employees, and licenses.

Security, that is, the protection and preservation of these assets, is a fundamental value in safeguarding corporate interests.

The Board of Directors, Management, and each Employee is personally responsible for maintaining this security through compliance with and dissemination of the company's directives in this regard and by preventing fraudulent or improper use of company assets.

The use of such assets by the Board of Directors, Management and Employees must be functional and exclusive to the performance of corporate activities or for the purposes authorized by the corporate functions concerned.

7.1. Enterprise Information Systems.

Maintaining a good level of information security is essential to protect the information that A. Loacker S.p.A. uses every day and is vital to the effective development of the company's business policies and strategies.

WHEREAS the use of the company's IT and telematic resources must always be inspired by the principles of diligence and fairness, Recipients who make use of the company's IT systems must adopt the additional internal rules, aimed at avoiding unconscious and/or improper behavior, which could cause damage to the Company, other Recipients or business partners, in compliance with the instructions provided by the competent company function.

7.2. Industrial property and confidentiality

Know-how, technical knowledge, developed and disseminated to and by the Board of Directors, Management and Employees, and licenses are central and indispensable assets of the company.

Security, that is, the protection and preservation of these assets, is a fundamental value in safeguarding corporate interests.

Any news, information and other material pertaining to business organization, negotiations, financial and commercial transactions, know-how (contracts, deeds, reports, notes, studies, drawings, photographs, software), obtained by a Recipient in connection with his or her work for A. Loacker S.p.A. is strictly the property of A. Loacker S.p.A. itself. Upon termination of the working relationship, for whatever reason, with A. Loacker S.p.A., all material forming company know-how, including documents and computer media, must be returned to the Company.

The Directors, Management, Employees and each Recipient of this Code are obliged to consider as strictly secret and confidential all documents and all business information and technical-industrial experience of particular value and other information, including commercial information, relating to the products and services, processes, strategies and projects that are the subject of A. Loacker S.p.A.'s business, communicated and/or acquired during the term of a contract, and this even after the expiration of the contractual relationship.

It is forbidden, for the Recipients, to use said information for their own benefit or for the benefit of third parties and to disclose said information to third parties or to make any use of it in such a way that could cause A. Loacker S.p.A. harm.

8. Confidentiality and data protection

In the performance of its activities A. Loacker S.p.A. acquires, stores, processes, communicates and disseminates documents and other data containing personal information of Employees, Customers, Suppliers, Collaborators and business contacts. At the same time A. Loacker S.p.A. holds confidential documents and information related to negotiations or business, projects and procedures.

The trust of these people in entrusting their data, as well as the protection of the confidentiality of them and the information entrusted to them, constitute a fundamental value for A. Loacker S.p.A.

A. Loacker S.p.A. is therefore committed to ensuring the proper handling of all personal data and information used in the conduct of its business activities.
